The Pet of the Soldiers, Taking to Army Life as a Duck to Water.

Taken by His Preserver to Ohio Where he Learned a Trade and is To-day a Happy Man.

When we of the cavalry were falling back before Lee as he was headed for Chantilly and Bull Run, a squadron of us which had been detailed to bring a wounded officer away from a house which was soon to be in possession of the advancing confederates, found ourselves shut in, front and rear. We numbered about thirty men, and had a twohorse ambulance in which the wounded man had been made as comfortable as possible. We had, indeed, advanced about a quarter of a mile before we discovered the box we were in. The confederates who had come in behind us were cavalry, and, owing to a turn in the road and a bit of woods, had not yet seen us. The lieutenant in command consulted with the major whom we were bringing away, and explained the

"Prepare me as well as you can for the ride, give me a revolver, and then form your men by fours and ride right down on the rebs and cut your way through," was the order of the major.

I was in the advance set of fcurs and the man on my right was next to the highway ditch. All of a sudden, just as we were waiting the order to advance, a little negro waiting the order to advance, a little negro boy, not over 3 years old, and as black as the blackest tar ever made, appeared in the ditch alongside of Parker. He seemed to have been hiding in the weeds, and I think he must have fallen out of a cart or got parted from the family as they were hurrying into the union lines before Lee's advance. At any rate he was there and alone, and as we saw him, Parker said:

"Good lands! but here's a nigger baby right under foot and all alone. What shall we do with him?"

At that moment we got the word to go

we do with him?"

At that moment we got the word to go ahead, and Parker lear el o er, picked the child up and placed him in front on the saddle. Two or three of us called to him to drop the boy, but he didn't do it. As we moved forward "Pick" was there and hanging on for dear life, his eyes as white as raw omions and every tooth plain to be counted. We were right on the rebels before they saw us, and it was biff! bang! slashl and we opened a lane and went through, every horse on the keen run and the wounded major firing away whenever he found a target for his bullets. When we finally got through "Pick" was with us and all right, and he had seen his first battle of the war. One would have said he liked it, for his grin was broader than before, and he did not seem a bit scared.

During the bloody days that followed the little fellow was with a company wagon, and I did not see him for a week. Then Parker took him down to Alexandria and left him with a colored woman, but a few months later being made company commisleft him with a colored woman, but a few months later being made company commissary and having the use of a wagon, he brought "Pick" back to the army, got a tailor to make him a suit of clothes, and then the boy was a fixture with us. He took to army life and every one of the company took to him, and had any one misused "Pick" it would have gone hard with him. He was with us to the very last, and I saw him munching a hard-tack and looking on while Lee's ragged old veterans laid down their arms at Appomattox. He clung down their arms at Appomattox. He clung to Parker above all others, and although the trooper was a rough fellow and unmar-put up by Cheap John houses or irresponsiried, the offer of $100 for "his little nigger," which was made over and over, was no temptation.

When the war closed "Pick" was taken north to Ohio, sent to school and then put to a trade, and it was only a month ago that I walked in on him in a Cincinnati cooper shop and found him a lusty big fellow with a house and a wife and two childlow with a home and a wife and two child-ren. He had never been back to Virginia, and although he had made many efforts to find his father and mother, not a trace of them had ever been secured.

"I reckon I jist dun got losted in de hur-ry," he explained, "an' de fam'ly had so meny odder ch'll'n dat dey didn't fink it worf while to stop and look for me."

Unsurpassed in the World.

The vestibuled trains of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, running Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, running daily between St. Paul and Minneapolis and Milwaukee and Chicago, are the perfection of modern railway equipment, and are unsurpassed in the world. They consist of elegant day coaches, Pullman's latest and best sleeping cars and the finest dining gars in the country. These trains are lighted by electricity and heated by steam, and afford to the traveler every comfort and convenience to be had at the very best hotels. All classes of tickets are honored on these trains and the rates are no higher than by other lines. It is for this higher than by other lines. It is for this reason that discriminating travelers patronize this company and insist that their tickets read over its line, as they naturally want the best service for their money.

Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking the first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamrick & Co. of Shelby, N. C. Get a free trial bottle at R. S. Hale & Co.'s drug store.

Herculean Strength

Continually on the strain, or overtaxed at intervals, is far less desirable than ordinary vigor perpetuated by rational diet and exercise, and abstention from excess. Professional puglists and athletes rarely attain old age. As ordinary vigor may be retained by a wise regard for sanitary living, and for the protection against disease which timely and judicious medication affords, so also it may be lost through prolonged sedentary labor, uninterrupted mental strain, and foolish eating and drinking, the chief and most immediate sequence of all four being dyspepsia. For this condition thus, or in any way induced, and for its offspring, a failure of muscular and nerve power, Hostetters Stomach Bitters is the primest and most genial of remedies. Not only indigestion, but loss of flesh, appetite and sleep are remedied by it. Incipient malaria and rheumatism are banished, and kidney, bowel and liver complaint removed by it. intervals, is far less desirable than ordinary

People Who Fret.

"Care killed the cat," is a well known old aw. The force of it is in the fact that fret and worry will kill even an animal which is popularly said to have nine lives. Fretting and worrying may not kill you, but they will shorten your days, and what happiness is there in a life all cankered with care? But how avoid worry? Well, Americans travel more than any other people on the globe, and probably discomforts and delays in traveling cause us greater annoyance than all other sources of fretting combined. The great Burlington system reaches all the principl cities of the west, and if you always select it as your route, you can banish fretting forever, so smooth is its track, so sumptuous and luxurious are its cars, and so appetizing and well cooked are the meals served on its diners. For tickets, and any information about this "People's favorite," call on your local agent, or write to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, C. B. & N. R.
